

High-Wire Act

Ladies and Gentlemen, direct your attention to the center ring to witness the Amazing Dumbini perform a brainless act of utter idiocy. His "overextended efforts" in getting the job done with no regard for his personal safety have earned him my "Mindless Monkey" award for the week.

"Aw, c'mon, give him a little credit," you say, "he's being a little safe by having someone hold the ladder, isn't he?" Yeah right. His sluggish sidekick, who is apparently there for support, is as worthless as a three-dollar bill ... not that he really could keep his buddy from falling anyway.

Folks, I beg you, on hands and knees, to never do something like this. If you're ever tempted ... just make sure your insurance is paid up, and your last will and testament has been signed, sealed and delivered.